

Family Violence Hotline

GLSP's Family Violence Hotline provides free legal advice for family violence survivors who qualify. We know that violence affects persons of all ages. Call us to talk to an attorney about topics including divorce, custody, kinship care, protective orders, Medicaid, Food Stamps/SNAP, and victim's compensation.

Staying Safe and COVID-19

- ❖ COVID-19 and social distancing could worsen situations at home and lead to threats, intimidation, and violence. Nobody has the right to hit you. It is a crime. It is never your fault.
- ❖ Your first concern should be your safety. If anyone becomes a threat to your safety, you should call 911.
- ❖ You can call Georgia's 24/7 Domestic Violence Hotline at 1-800-33HAVEN (1-800-334-2836). This number will connect you to the nearest domestic violence agency which can assist you with economic and physical safety planning, counseling, and other community resources.

Divorce

- ❖ Many survivors of family violence want a divorce. If your spouse is abusive, a divorce can be the best way to permanently separate.
- ❖ You can contact the GLSP Family Violence Hotline for advice about filing for divorce.
- ❖ If you are served with a divorce, contact an attorney as soon as possible.
